The Sierra solution to your Life Cycle Management Needs -

- Equipment consolidation
- Care Of Supplies In Storage

- End of Life Cycle support

In today's life cycle management community, success of your program not only depends upon your ability to get your product to your customer, but it also depends on the overall cost of maintaining the product. One of the highest hidden costs involved is transportation from one phase of the life cycle to the next.

Sierra can be the solution that eliminates unnecessary costs, reduces transportation requirements and enables you to maintain your equipment through sustainment, readiness and end of life cycle.

Sierra is ideally located, properly sized, facilitated, and missioned to support Department of Defense (DoD) logistics, storage and maintenance requirements.
